THE ASSEMBLY. Hanted Defends His Measure Against the Attacks of the Minority-Gas Law in the Senate-Debate May He Ended on Two Hours' Notice from Two Men. ALBANY, Feb. 4 .- The Burns-Husted retallatory insurance bill, which was the subject of discussion in the Senate last night and is now on the list of general orders in that body, was passed by the Assembly to-day by a vote of 104 to 21.

When the bill was reached on the calendar Mr. Armstrong moved to recommit it for a hear-ing. It was introduced, he said, in the interest of a few life insurance companies, and it left no discretion with the Insurance Superintendent as to what foreign companies he should exclude. Mr. Robbins supported the motion. The bill should not be rushed through without full investigation. He had introduced a resolution last night calling upon the Insurance Superintendent for information concerning the aubject matter of the bill. It had been objected to. and it was apparent that the advocates of the bill wished to avoid public scrutiny.

Mr. Stanchfield favored the passage of the bill and opposed its recommitment. Some time ago Prussis, against which the bill is directed, had expelled the three largest life insurance companies in the United States, which had invested large sums of money in Prussia in buildings and in other ways. The appeal for the passage of this bill came from all three, not from one of these companies. It was no more barsh in its provisions against foreign countries than the existing law is toward other States of the Union, in which similar retaliation is provided for. Prussia had antagonized New York companies for years in an effort to drive them out of business. One oppressive requirement after another had been imposed, and all had been met by the companies concerned.

Mr. Stauchfield read from a letter from President McCall of the New York Life, one of the mpanies affected, stating that up to the time of expulsion every law and every decree of the Prussian Gyvernment had been complied with. As to the danger that the fire insurance business in this State would be injured by the passage of the bill, inasmuch as the only Prussian companies doing business here are fire insurance companies. Mr. Stanchfield showed that the Prussian companies represent only 1-433 of the business. The expulsion of the American companies was due only to the fact that American enterprise had brought these companies to the front and had cut into the business of the home companies. It was the duty of the State Governments, through such laws as this, to assert throughout the world the freedom and independence of the American people.

Mr. Waldo said that the opponents of the bill were in favor of the principle embodied in it. but desired its recommitment because it was vicious in its terms. It was too arbitrary and far-reaching. Mr. Husted, in bringing the debate to a close said that the exclusion of the New York, Mutual, and Equitable companies by the Prussian Government was the finale of a long course of persecution of American interests. It began with American pork, it was extended to Ameritan cereals, and now it included insurance com banies. Prussia had first demanded a deposit panies. Prussia had urst demanded a deposi-of 50 per cent, of the premiums, while only 10 per cent, is required in this State. The sompanies compiled with that. Then the Prus-sian Government demanded a set of returns which made it necessary for the companies to thange their entire systems of bookkeeping. thange their entire systems of bookkeeping. Again the American companies compiled. They had compiled with all demands, and finally frussia declared these three great and wealth y companies insolvent, refused to accept the certificate of the State Insurance Superintendent as to their financial condition, and declined peremptorily to enter into any discussion of the question. Letters had been sent to the Prussian Minister in charge of insurance matters by the Governor of this State making inquiries, and not even the courtesy of a reply had been accorded them.

Mr. Husted moved the previous question, which was carried. The motion for recommitment was lost, 40 to 78. Mr. Brennan then moved to recommit the bill for the purpose of inserting an amendment making it necessary for the Insurance Superintendent, before shutter, or a Prinsalan commany to lay the feet-

for the insurance Superintendent, before shutting out a Prussian company, to lay the facts before the Governor and secure his approval.
Mr. Waido said that this amendment, he beleved, would make the bill accentable to every member of the House. The motion was voted down and the bill was passed.

The Assembly adopted a resolution introduced by Mr. Carlisle, calling upon the Fish, Game, and Forest Commission for a detailed statement of lands under water which have been sold or leased for shellish cultivation. The Oyster Trust, Mr. Carlisle said, had secured large tracts of such land to the detriment of oystermen, who for years had made their living from it. Saies had been made in the dead of night, when the poor people who were being crowded out could not bid for the land, even if they had the means to purchase or lease it.

bot bid for the land, even if they had the means to purchase or lease it.
Gag law ran riot in the Senate to-day. The new cloture rule was adopted and the precedent stablished last week for choking off all resolutions of inquiry by referring them to hostile committees, was followed again, and even extended in its interpretation. The resolution in question was introduced by Senator Maiby. It requested the Superintendent of insurance to give the Senate within ten days the names of companies to which foreign countries had refused licenses.

requested the Superintendent of insurance to give the Senate within ten days the names of companies to which foreign countries had refused licenses.

Senator Burns, Chairman of the Insurance Committee, moved that the resolution be referred to his committee, which could get all the information desired. Senator Brush suggested that, as the retailatory insurance bill, to which the resolution referred, had left the committee and was before the House, the resolution should not be referred. The motion was then carried, 20 to 13, and the resolution was put to sleep.

The cloture rule was not adopted without a vigorous protest from the Democratic members. It provides that the Committee on Rules, which may sit at any time, may report a rule to cut off debate on any measure, after which but two hours' discussion shall be permitted. It allows Measrs, Ellsworth and Raines, the Republican majority of the committee, to force through a party measure whenever it suits them at two hours' notice. Not only this, as Senator Grady pointed out, but it will permit any two members of the committee to force through a bill in which they are interested, not necessarily of a political character, in the same way.

Senator Raines said the majority was responsible for the legislation of the session, and intended to have power commensurate with the responsibility. There was no desire to restrict the rights of the minority, as long as it confined its opposition within the usual bounds. If it attempted fillioustering tactics, then the rule was lied for beneficial puposes, but is the weapon of the lobber and the lobbylst. It proceeds from a fair of discussion and exposure. If it is adopted, I give warning now that as long as I am here the majority will get on all occasions just what it is entired to under the rules and nothing more. There are only about four measures on which it is expected that we will divide on party lines. On the great mass of business measures it is hard to say who the minority will be."

that we will divide on party lines. On the great mass of business measures it is hard to say who the minority will be."

Senator Elisworth said the rule was intended only for the orderly conduct of business. If the minority gave no occasion for its enforcement, it would remain quiescent. The rule was then adopted by a strict party vote, 33 to 13.

A bill was introduced to-day by Senator Pavey and Assemblyman Austin to abolish the school trustees in New York city and concentrate the administration of the school system in the Heard of Education. It is somewhat similar to the bill of last year and is encorsed by the City Olub, Prof. Butler of Columbia College, and other educational reformers. One objection made to last year's bill was that it might result in clearing out a lot of teachers and principals. It is provided in this bill that it shall not affect the tenure or compensation of any teacher or principal now employed. the tenure or compensation of any teacher or principal now employed.

All school trustees are to go out of office on June 30, at which time their offices are to be abolished. All power, authority, duties, and jurisdiction vested in the trustees are to be trans-

CRAIG COLONY READY.

Arrangements at the Old Shaker Settlement for State Care of Epilepties,

President William R. Stewart of the State Board of Charities received from the public printer yesterday the report of the standing committee of the Board on the Craig Colony Epileptics. The committee consists of Dr. Enoch V. Stoddard, Edward W. Foster, Peter Wolrath, and William P. Letchworth. The Craig Colony is an institution for the sare of dependent epileptics, the establishment of which was authorized by a law approved on April 25, 1894. Under that law an appropriation of $140,000 was made, and the Board of Managers created by it was authorized to purchase the old Shaker settlement in Livingsto county for $115,000, and to prepare this settlement for the proper care and maintenance of epileptics. This t act of land contains about 1,800 acres, and is on Kispaqua Creek. The committee reports that the proper alterations in buildings have been made to furnish accommodations for 200 patients, and that these buildings have been provided with the latest character of sanitary arrangements, water works, and a severage system. The water for general purposes is drawn from the creek and pumped into a steel water tower of a capacity of 15,000 gallons. The water for drinking purposes comes from springs west of the buildings, which furnish a supply of 14,000 gallons daily. The east group of buildings have been prepared for the reception of patients. The small farmhouse there will be the superintendent's home, and the old meeting house has been transformed into a dormitory which will accommodate forty or fifty patients. The main building, now known as "Letchworth House," has been overhauled and refitted, like the others, with steam heat, bath, and tollet rooms, and will accommodate 100 patients, besides furnishing room for the present for administration offices. The smaller buildings to the westward of Letchworth House have been altered and added to, and now comprise a connected series, including in them dining rooms, kitchens, a laundry, and a bakery. The dining room will at present seat 100 patients. Flans for increasing its size are underconsideration. The whole of the grounds about the buildings will be laid out under the superintendence of competent landscape architects.

The committee recommends that the little committee reports that the proper alterations

He said that to compel the women to begin work so early was an unnecessary hardship, as most of them lived in distant parts of the city, and had to get up at 2 or 3 in the morning to get to work on time. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Public Works, of which Alderman School is Chairman. At a meeting of the Board yesterday Mr. Noonan asked what had become of it. Mr. School said that it had been considered and the committee would report. Personally he was against it, as the buildings could not be cleaned before business hours if the women began work at 7. Mr. Noonan then made a speech on behal of "the poor creatures," as he called them, and Mr. School said:

will be made to prevent the location of saloous near private residences. One of the propositions looking to this end is to extend the 200-foot law looking to this end is to extend the 200-foot law which now applies to churches and schools to all buildings occupied as slwellings. How this could be adouted without driving nearly all the saloons in New York city out of business is not explained.

A provision which is intended to prevent the reopening of dives will be inserted, prohibiting the granting of licenses to any person who has broken any statute. There is no provision in the bill now for all-night licenses for gardens and ballrooms. An amendment will be made leaving it within the discretion of the Mayor to authorize such licenses, but at a rate much higher than the ordinary saloon tax. The tax for the smallest places in the State, now fixed at $100, will be raised to $200.

THE TUCKAHOE MURDER MYSTERY.

New Evidence Scening to Directly Connect YONKERS, Feb. 4 .- The two men, Meyers and Byrnes, who are held here on suspicion of knowing something about the death of Mrs. Tucket in the outskirts of this city last week, have beer subjected to many examinations during the past few days. At first their stories agreed with each other, but more recently the men have beagree. To-day the discovery was made which would seem to connect Meyers directly with the strangling of the young woman. It is the first bit of positive evidence against him that has not quite up to the mark, you usually say "It's my liver." Fact is, if your stomach and bowels were all right, your liver would have a chance to mind its own business and you could mind yours. Ripans Tabules taken at meal-times keep the digestion and the bowels in such perfect order that you'd never know you had a liver. They cure the worst forms of dyspepsia, liver troubles and constipation. The "Tab-🖢 ules" are a scientific remedy, based on 🤇 natural laws: the formula of a skilful physician. They cure naturally; they cure radically and permanently; they cure when other remedies fail. If you e are skeptical, one box will convince you.
